Did you know the American church is losing the war for the next generation? Many fall away because they don't have answers to key questions.

"Dad, I don't believe in God anymore." Those are the words of a former church youth group leader to her father after only 4 weeks of classes at UNC Chapel Hill. Between 50-75% of Christian kids are leaving the faith by their second year in college. In this seminar, you'll learn simple, practical steps to defending the faith that have already gotten results.

These steps will empower teens and adults to: 1) solidify their faith in God, 2) defend their faith, and 3) protect their faith. Faith isn't enough when being pounded with atheistic agendas. But, faith combined with science, evidence and logic creates a force that not only defends our faith but is an evangelistic tool to bring others to God.

Parents, this is what you need to know to keep your kids and yourself from leaving the faith. Please make every effort to attend!

Our speaker will be Luke Miiller from Bismarck. At age 19, he is one of the youngest Christian apologists of our day. He has already published his first book entitled, Why Do You Believe? Luke began a quest for truth, questioning everything he had been taught. After four years of researching the top Christian apologists and atheistic arguments of our time and talking with countless teenage Christians and atheists, he realized that most teens' answers lacked evidence, facts and ownership. He's become an outspoken advocate for apologetics in the teenage years. With a heart for evangelism and eternal destiny at stake, Luke's passion is to prove God to his generation.
