November Bible Book of the Month... First Thessalonians

Paul wrote his first letter to the Thessalonian church from the city of Corinth around AD 51. Paul wanted to check on the state of the Thessalonians' faith, for fear that false teachers might have infiltrated their number.

Paul wrote to encourage the Christians in that community with the goal that they would continue to grow in godliness. Paul knew that the people had been exposed to errant teaching from those in opposition to the way of Jesus Christ and the grace of God. And Paul also understood that unless the young church continued to mature in its faith, the danger would only increase over time.

With that in mind, Paul taught the people that any spiritual growth would ultimately be motivated by their hope in the ultimate return of Jesus Christ. Paul was never interested in simply telling people to pull themselves up by their bootstraps, for he knew that what ultimately inspired change was a life of consistently walking in the power of God's Spirit. Paul offered the hope of Christ's return, providing both comfort in the midst of questions and motivation to godly living.

Do you ever feel as though your Christian faith has grown stale, that you are withering on the vine when you would rather be flourishing in His service? Paul's first letter to the Thessalonians is the perfect remedy for such a feeling. Its focus on Christ's return provides water for the thirsty soul, encouraging growth in maturity by providing hope in the midst of suffering or uncertainty.

The first letter to the Thessalonians makes clear that every Christian should expect to grow in holiness over the course of his or her life.
